

We are pleased to announce that DI has partnered with Fwd:Vault, which provides a very simple and easy-to-use data backup service. We know that teams generate a fair amount of digital information over the course of a program year, doubly so for our regional and affiliate volunteers. Until now, the requirements of available data storage services were simply beyond our support capacity. Fwd:Vault works without any software or hardware, making it easy for the entire DI community to implement and use.

We are especially excited about this partnership because the company's founder rose out of the DI ranks. Frank Koehl is DI's former Director of Technology, responsible for building the original ShopDI and the Resources Area. He left DI to pursue his dreams, and we're elated to have him back in this capacity. "My time at DI was simultaneously one of the most challenging and rewarding experiences of my career," Frank said. "I'm thrilled at the opportunity to support and collaborate with an institution that helped shape me personally and professionally."

All members of the DI community save 10% for the first 3 months when signing up for any paid Fwd:Vault account. Prices start under $3/month, and a portion of every subscription goes directly to DI.

There are two ways to enjoy these savings and support DI:

1. Use this link to register: <https://fwdvault.com/partners/idodi>
2. Enter "idodi" in the box labeled "Coupon code" during registration

The link will soon be available at the bottom of every page on idodi.org, and please feel free to pass along the discount code to your friends and family.

Fwd:Vault will be showcasing its services at the Global Finals Expo in May, and Frank has promised that we will see more features added over the summer in time for the '10-'11 season. To learn more about Fwd:Vault, visit <http://fwdvault.com>.
